

Kingsgrove North High School

The Way North

Our Community Newsletter No. 7, 2018

2 St Albans Rd, Kingsgrove, 2208

T 9502 3933

F 9554 3907

Principal's Report

As we come to the close of another year I would like to look back and reflect on some of the great programs and events that have taken place this year. Before I do this, I would like to congratulate and acknowledge Ms Bilali who has been promoted to Principal at Bankstown Girls High School. Ms Bilali has for the past two years been relieving Deputy at Punchbowl Boys High School even though she has still been attached to our school. She has been a great asset for our school and made a major contribution to its success and we know she will continue to do this in her new role at Bankstown Girls.

This year the successes for our school have continued with the very pleasing HSC results that have recently come out. Our students have continued to work hard in several areas and this has been reflected across the community and with the feedback that I have been receiving.

Our major events this year have again been an outstanding success with the Open Night in February as well as the Showcase, COS band, Presentation Evening, Orientation Day to name a few.

Our students have again represented our school with pride and success and established an excellent reputation in the community and every time they have been on an excursion.

In terms of upgrades and new infrastructure this year I can report that over 98% of our school has now been painted both internally and externally. I am please to see staff upgrading their rooms and making the learning environment more inviting for students and this is the feedback that I have been receiving. We have installed new seating and more pergolas for shade, opened the STEM room and Technology centre as well as upgrading other computer rooms with new benches.

All classrooms have interactive boards for using technology in their teaching and as we go to print the new memorial garden is also about to be completed. The outdoor education area with the Greenhouse is up and running and a work station for students will be build during the holiday break. The new basketball courts have also been getting plenty of usage.

In the area of teaching and learning staff have been busy developing new programs and a lot of work has been done in the area of Professional Development for staff with an executive conference held in September that focused on Instructional Leadership.

Other programs include Wize Up, Girls day, Top Blokes, weekly drumming circles and life ready course. Our SRC and Prefects have also been active in organising activities and assisting with school events. We also had Padstow TAFE do some work for us during the year with the building of 2 new shelters for the oval.

There are many more projects planned for 2019 with some of these about to commence in the holidays. The back carpark will be asphalted, the indoor soccer court about to commence

Kingsgrove North High School

The Way North

Our Community Newsletter No. 7, 2018

2 St Albans Rd, Kingsgrove, 2208

T 9502 3933

F 9554 3907

construction as well. New seating will be placed in the main quad and a mini grandstand with a cover built at the eastern side of the oval.

A new senior study area also developed in the library this is also underway, while each faculty will have a specialised room (focal point in the school for that faculty) developed as well. The upgrade of technology in each classroom will continue which will mean that every room in the school will have IT facilities. A new garden will also be developed at the front of the school with an Asian theme.

Finally, on November 30 we had a visit from the Deputy Secretary Mr Murat Dizdar who spent the morning visiting various classroom and talking to students. He was very impressed with our school and relayed this back to the Secretary of the Department Mr Mark Scott. It was an excellent endorsement of our school and the work that both staff and students do.

I would like to end by thanking my staff for all their hard work this year as well as the school executive and Deputies. I would also like to wish everyone a happy Christmas and a safe holiday break and I look forward to celebrating the schools 60th anniversary in 2019

Angelo Stasos
Principal

Final YEAR 10 report 2018

What a big year, this cohort has finished their Stage 5 ROSA. The NSW syllabuses state what students at each stage are expected to learn. A to E grade scales describe how well students have achieved. Congratulations to these students to worked hard to achieve their personal best. Also to those who received awards on Presentation night for academic, sporting and/or consistent effort.

Many engaged in extra curricula activities and represented the school in both sporting and leadership programs. Well done.

Next year is the beginning of their final years at school; stage 6 (Preliminary HSC and their HSC). One thing that is easy to forget is that while the HSC is usually a definite focal point of anxiety, your teen is simultaneously experiencing a whole lot of other challenges associated with simply being a teenager. Such as, asserting their independence from parents, dealing with relationship issues and just going through the run of the mill identity crisis!

It is important that you help your child keep this year in perspective – it's fine to encourage them to give it their best shot, but if they don't get the marks they want it's not the end of the world – there are many, many pathways to success in life, and believe it or not, life will go on after year 12.

Remember, the new senior uniform entails a navy pant or skirt with a white shirt and black leather school shoe. These can be purchased from the school uniform shop which will be open Monday – Thursday 21-24th and Tuesday 29th January respectively between 9am-3pm.

May you all have a happy and safe holiday? Mrs Varvaressos (Yr 10 Advisor)

From the English Faculty

Well done to all Year 7 who participated in the Reading Challenge for 2018. Congratulations to Isabella Yan of 7 Adelaide in taking out the prize for most books read by an individual student and well done to 7 Melbourne, winning the coveted end of year Pizza Party. A huge thank you to Mrs Faros for organising this great activity.

Meanwhile, in the last few weeks of Term 4 the English Faculty have been focusing on developing the creative writing skills of our students. Pupils from all grades have been furiously writing poems and short stories and we have been inundated with some fantastic responses. Another huge thank you to Mrs Pylotis for organising this valuable competition. It is now my pleasure to publish the winners of 'The Write Stuff' English Competition.

Mr Kennedy

Year 7 Report

We've reached the end of the year. First year of high school is complete!! Students received their Yearly Reports on Thursday 13th December so by now you should have had a good look at your child's performance over the course of the year. This would be a good time to talk to your child about setting goals for next year and putting strategies in place to help them achieve those goals. Our students tend to perform better at school when there is a healthy relationship between parents and the teachers. It helps keep them accountable. So please, feel free to discuss any concerns you may have (behaviour in class, homework completion, academic progress etc) with our staff by calling the school.

On December 4th, ninety Year 7 students went out on excursion to the Mt Annan Botanical Gardens. It was a lovely day out in the fresh air. The students' behaviour was excellent, so much so that the rangers from the park congratulated me on their mature attitude and pleasant dispositions. The rangers also rang our Principal, praising our students, which made me very proud indeed!

The "Super Duper Reading Challenge" has also come to an end. The class that collectively read the most novels and won the competition were 7 Melbourne. They earned a "super duper" class party for their efforts, complete with pizza, drinks, sweets and lots of fun and laughter! I'd also like to congratulate Isabella Yan from 7 Adelaide who individually read the most novels by any one student during the challenge. She earned a special award at our Presentation Evening Ceremony on Wednesday 12th December.

Also, two students from Year 7 won the school's writing competition, "The Write Stuff". The theme this year was "For the love of..." The two students who won were Alyzza P. for her story and Tiana C. for her poem. The impressive thing, apart from the sophisticated quality of their work, is that the girls beat students from Years 8 and 9 to win their prizes. They were also awarded their prizes at our Presentation Evening ceremony.

To my beautiful Year 7s, have a wonderful break! Stay safe and re-charge because next year we get to do it all over again! To those who celebrate Christmas, from my family to ours, eat drink and be merry!!! See you all next year!!!!

Angela Faros

Junior prose winner

For the Love of Murder!

A stab victim, a car, and a serial killer; what would be the worst scenario possible?

The bright moon hung overhead, spying on the little humans doing their chores and activities, the pitch-black sky increasing its luminosity. A song echoed throughout the desolate street, a voice singing along joyfully.

"Say, how long are you gonna stay at Germany, Sabrina?" questioned Meredith, who turned down the volume of the radio (reporting of some serial killer on the loose--wasn't concerning to them), her brown eyes fleeting to the said person before moving back to the road. Sabrina simply shrugged, too busy looking outside to answer and also, because she was too tired and in need of desperate rest. Nathan had fallen asleep at the backseat (a luxury Sabrina wished she had), now snoring so loudly that Meredith had to drown him out with music.

"Where'd you app--" A scream interrupted Sabrina's question as the car screeched to the halt but the damage was already done when they heard the unmistakable thud of a body. Sabrina had held onto the handle of the roof and Meredith had clenched the steering wheel tightly in her hands, both eyes wide and jaws dropped. Nathan now wide awake, peered over to the front, asking a question that was on everyone's mind:

"What just happened?"

Meredith began to stutter, trying to find a logical situation before concluding that they should check what they hit. Perhaps it was a possum or feral animal, that would be the best case scenario. Everyone stepped out of the car, stumbling to the hood of the car where a gasping male was collapsed on the ground, thick blood pooling around him. "Oh, my God, oh, my God," Sabrina repeated, hands raised to her face but she couldn't bring herself to cover her eyes that were already leaking out tears. Her blue eyes raked over the body, lingering on the kitchen knife protruding from his abdomen.

"Look." Nathan pointed at the sharp object that now had everyone's attention, finger shaking. A crackle of leaves broke their trance as a figure was standing to their left, their hands caked with blood before they began to bolt towards the three. "Get, get in the car!" Nobody knew who exactly said it but nonetheless followed the command.

-----

"That's all I remember," Sabrina whispered out, voice hoarse with tears. The interrogator nodded, neatly writing down notes before excusing Sabrina from the interrogation room.

"Thank you for your cooperation, Ms. Riemann. We'll contact you if we need your assistance again, good afternoon." The woman, known as Kayley, began to pack up before exiting the room, leaving Sabrina alone to her thoughts. Life, that was supposed to go uphill after graduating, quickly went downhill after that incident. The friendship between the three also became strained, no one having the energy to support each other when they had a hard time doing it themselves.

Sabrina left the police station, deciding to just head home straight away after the tiring interaction. She felt the security cameras focus on her like predatory eyes following her every move, noting her paranoid behaviour. Her mother decided to let the trip to Germany linger a bit to let Sabrina recover from that experience to which she was eternally grateful for.

The trip was supposed to take place two weeks ago so she could visit her family but it had been pushed back to two days from now, when the last interview was scheduled and the Riemann family was given the green light to leave the country. Sabrina's phone vibrated in her pocket and she fished it out to see that it was her mother calling her. Accepting the call, she muttered out many 'okays' and 'I'm alright' before ending the call. Her call log was full of her mother's name, ringing every five minutes. Lately, her mother had been so overprotective that Sabrina felt like she was choking.

Her house soon appeared in her sight, the brown, shedding paint covering the walls. The garden was nurtured to the fullest, flowers blooming in different, bold colours. Stepping up onto the veranda, Sabrina jiggled the doorknob with her key, unlocking it and walking in, not forgetting to lock the door. Jogging up to her room, she flopped onto her bed and flipped open her laptop, opening Facebook to chat with the people she needed most.

Hey you guys can we talk? She texted on the chat that they normally used previously. She had calmed down externally after the experience but the overwhelming guilt and horror had taken home in her stomach. Minutes passed but it felt like hours while she stared at the empty chat log.

About what, Nathan replied, keeping his messages short and blunt as always. Sabrina couldn't help but smile as she was reminded of the olden days.

The accident I need to let go of some stuff maybe you should too

Sure, whatever, Meredith finally contributed to the conversation. If you were to ask who was the most traumatised, Meredith would surely be your answer. She blamed herself since she was driving the car despite everyone else telling her the opposite.

And then it came all spilling out like an overflowing sink, the three sharing their guilt, shame and anxiety over the internet.

What if they target us? The man who we saw with the blood, Nathan had asked, disrupting the flow of the interaction.

But he doesn't even know us, Meredith countered yet the fear grew bigger and bigger after the realisation.

Sabrina's mum's car number plate

That statement alone struck fear into everyone but most importantly Sabrina. The said person swallowed nervously before typing out a message, hoping to quench the lump of terror in her heart.

Come on guys I'll be in Germany by the time the person can find me

Sabrina never arrived at Germany.

By Alyzza P

Junior poetry winner

For the love of losing him

I was a waste of your time
I wasn't good enough
We shared all our secrets
You helped me when life got tough

So, I say sorry
I'll give it all back
Late night conversations
Calls that got off track

I'll give back our friendship
You can have a fresh start
You were everything I could ever want
Kind, funny and smart

I'll miss it all
You always knew what to say
Your words of encouragement
You brightened my day

Your sarcasm killed my anger
You know how to make things right
I spilled my problems to you
You listened all night

You kept me on my feet
You helped me persevere when I wasn't strong
I feel the need to say it again
I'm truly sorry if I've done you any wrong

You have found another girl
This all feels like a race
I'm running out of breath
I'm always second place

I'm being so cliché
I'm just another one of those heartbroken girls
He's the guy with the braces
I'm the girl with the curls

Guess this is my goodbye
You got me to where I am now
You were an amazing friend
Standing ovation, take a bow

By Tiana C.

---

Senior poetry winner

For the Love of...

For the love of all that's holy,
why must I be cold and angsty.
Feels like the world is crumbling around me, as my dreams sink to the bottom of the sea.
Though my mind is clear and filtered,

and my thoughts are strong and bolstered,
 I can't help by give a confession,
 as I am pressured by the dark beast of depression.
 My tears he drinks, my pain he eats, limiting from any great feats.
 Combined with his brother, the inferiority complex, gifted to me by my recent ex.
 Sprinkle in some jealousy and anxiety,
 along with some mood swings and vanity,
 one would make a concoction for grief and strife,
 that may endanger one's own life.
 No one can easily escape me, unless with love and certainty,
 my impact is important and irrationally immense,
 my name is 'teenager' also known as 'adolescence'.

By Bianco Z.

Senior prose winner

For the love of

My foot steps on a small rock causing me to slip and grip harder on to the railing behind me. I watch as the rock plummets below to the raging traffic. My vision starts to blur and I can feel my heart pounding in my chest.

The cold wind whips my long hair obscuring my face. I loosen my grip on the railing and lean forward just as a loud NO is screamed.

My hands grip on to the railings like clamps as I turn to see where the noise has come from. "Claire?" I croak. She raises her hands up slowly and moves closer.

"You need to get down." She says taking more steps towards me.

My face turns sour as it dawn's on me as to why she is here.

"So this is what it takes for you to see me?" I scream at her. She freezes shock evident on her face.

"You can't stop me I've made up my mind." I say turning back to the ledge.

"Why are you doing this?" She says with such pain I force myself to turn around. Her face is a river of tears as she looks up at me pleadingly.

"Nobody cares for me I will not be missed" I state matter of factually. But her reaction surprises me, as her features change to that of anger.

"NO ONE WILL MISS YOU!?! FOR THE LOVE OF GOD HOW SELFISH CAN YOU BE!" She screams.

I'm stunned into silence; this was not what I was expecting. I had prepared myself for the situation that someone may try to stop me but selfish? This is something I did not expect.

Claire takes a few steps forward as she realises her words have affected me.

"Did you not think about how doing this would affect your family, how it would break them inside. How I would feel." She is in an arm's length to me now.

I shake my head no she's just saying this to try to stop me; I have made up my mind. I look up at her my eyes full of tears now as well.

"I'm sorry" I say as I completely let go of the railing closing my eyes. But the pain of impact I had braced for does not come. I look up to see Claire struggling to grip on to my arm.

"Stop let go your going to fall." I say trying to shake her free, as her nails bite into my arm making me wince.

"NO" she screams shaking her head as her tears fall onto my face.

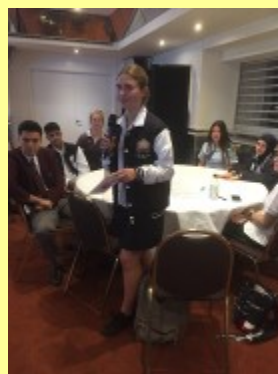

"Claire pleas" I plead she looks me in the eyes "let me go" I say. She looks at me with horror. "You need to let me go and live your life." I croak.

She stares at me for a few moments before saying. "I'm sorry" and with that she jumps over the railing still griping my arm. She pulls me into her hugging me so hard it hurts.

"I love you." she whispers.

By Trisha M.

University of Wollongong (UOW) and the St George Dragons ran Energise, Lead Succeed Workshop for ten of our year 12 academic leaders amongst sixteen other high schools. Our students met Brian Johnston CEO of St George Illawarra Dragons, retired football player Ben Creagh, academics of UOW and keynote speakers, most inspirational Marlee Silva from the Indigenous community. Our students represented our school with integrity. What a great day!

An update from the HT Administration-

During our recent Year 12 meeting, all students received their 2019 Higher School Certificate, Rules and Procedures booklet from NESA and signed their 2019 Confirmation of Entry document. I encourage Year 12 students to thoroughly read important notices that are sent from NESA about the year ahead and regularly check their student NESA portals to update personal information that may change during the holiday period.

Year 10 have recently completed All My Own Work. Mr Nick Kennedy (Head Teacher English) had organised for this to happen. The completion of this module is a NESA requirement and I am now able to enrol our 2019 Year 11 cohort into NESA at the beginning of next year.

Finally, I would like to inform all parents that if you would like your student to be enrolled in scripture next year you will need to complete, sign and return the permission note to the school.

I wish all the KNHS families have a wonderful holiday period.

Miss Dimitra Tsotsioras
Head Teacher Administration

Year 12 Special Education Graduation

On Friday 6th November we said farewell to our year 12 Special Education students in a memorable graduation ceremony hosted by Fridays Café. They are a wonderfully diverse group of young adults who have been a pleasure to teach. They will be greatly missed and we wish them all well in their future endeavours.

Social Science Faculty News

It's been another busy year for the Social Science Faculty. I have enjoyed my time as the Acting Head Teacher, and look forward to continuing in this role next year. As a faculty, we have faced the introduction of a new 7-10 Geography syllabus and the need to develop new teaching programs as a result. Much time has been spent on ensuring these programs not only meet NESA requirements, but also the needs of students at Kingsgrove North.

Students have been involved in a number of activities to challenge them, and to reinforce classroom learning. These have included excursions to the Georges River National Park (wetlands management), Cronulla Beach (coastal management), Downing Centre Courts, NSW Parliament House and the Reserve Bank. Through the Social Science Faculty, students have had the opportunity to be entered into the Geography Competition, as well as the University of Newcastle Business Plan Challenge and the Plan Your Own Enterprise Competition. In addition, Year 10 Commerce students participated in the Whitlam Institute (Western Sydney University) workshops on the importance of political and civic engagement. Under the guidance of Miss Papadopoulos, Year 9 Commerce students set up food stalls to promote the $20 Boss program. It was a most enjoyable event, with students developing entrepreneurial skills, whilst also supporting a worthy cause. The Sharemarket Game Competition was another event that showcased the talents of some budding future investors.

In terms of staffing, I would like to thank Ms Habashy who has done an excellent job, filling in for Ms Kabbara from Term 2. In November, we had the happy event of Ms Kallitsis giving birth to a baby girl - a very exciting time. I would like to thank Ms Kiprovski for taking on Ms Kallitsis' classes for the latter part of Term 4. We look forward to working with both Ms Kiprovski and Ms Habashy in 2019.

Finally, I would like to congratulate Ms Papadopoulos on her appointment to Sylvania High School. Ms Papadopoulos has been at KNHS for 28 years and has made many valuable contributions at both the faculty and whole school level. We wish her all the best, as she starts on a new journey in her career in education. Thank you for all your hard work.

Have a great holiday break and see you next year.
Seasons Greetings,

Mrs D. Tsitsos
Acting Head Teacher – Social Science

Alma R, our current Sport Captain was invited to compete in an international athletic meeting in the US and Canada. Alma completed in the 200, 400 and 800 metres and achieved a 1st place (gold medal) 2 silver medals (2nd place) and a bronze (3rd place) at the 2 competitions. Alma was sponsored by Frutex Australia who are great supporters and sponsors of our school. We would like to acknowledge and thank Peter Magiros and his family for their continued support of our school and students.

Year 5/6 Orientation Day Programming in Javascript and Python with Mrs Cazouris

On Tuesday 4th December 2018 Mr Cazouris had the pleasure of introducing students to fun coding projects in javascript and Python. There were two groups from Bexley North Primary School and One Group from Mcallums Hill. The projects offered were Dance Party 1 and 2 from Code.Org and The Turtle Race from Code Club Australia.

Bexley North students learnt about the transition from block- based coding to text based coding and analysed the syntax, functions and variables from an example provided. Students now know what to look for when using text-based programming languages. Most students from Bexley North Primary School completed Dance Party 1 and 2 from code.org, received certificates and continued onto coding the Turtle Race in Python which is a text-based programming language. Students created their accounts in Trinket and have now the opportunity to continue programming in Python at their school or even at home.

Mcallums Hill students were introduced to Code.Org. They were so excited because they created their accounts and worked on block-based coding. The project was Dance Party. Students got to code sprites doing dance moves and learnt how to import variables, functions, measures and so on. This lesson made a big difference to these students as it opened a world of coding which they can take back to their school and continue. This will make their transitions to High School easier as they will be faced with Digital Technologies in year 7 and 8 where coding is a major part of.

All Students had lots of fun and were very thankful for their coding learning experience with Mrs Cazouris.

Operation Christmas Child- A year 9 Commerce Initiative

By Maria Papadopoulos- Year 9 Commerce teacher

Year 9 Commerce students used funds from sales generated on Commerce Day - $20 Boss to buy gifts for children living in poverty in neighbouring Papua New Guinea, so they can experience the joy of receiving this Christmas.

Operation Christmas Child is a unique project of Samaritans Purse (An International Relief Fund), bringing God's hope and joy to children in desperate situations. Many senior students also embraced the project by becoming a group leader. Each introduced the project to their community; raising awareness about poverty. They collected gifts and money and became group leaders encouraging others to be involved. Students further developed communication and leadership skills embracing values of social justice and equity. They can use this project in their application for early entry into university.

A total of 80 boxes were purchased by Year 9 Commerce Students that were filled by Kingsgrove North High School students, staff and members of the community.

<https://www.samaritanspurse.org.au/operation-christmas-child/>

Where can students get to put into practice learning taking place in the class room, have the opportunity to gain real work experience and secure a part time job whilst studying for their HSC?

By Maria Papadopoulos- VET Retail Service Teacher

Retail Service students enjoyed two weeks of work placement. Thank you to the generous employers who mentored them and their teachers for supporting them in catching up with class work. Some highlights include; Suzie and Julie got themselves and our school's name on the Digital Camera House website and the employer praised the students most highly for their enthusiasm, knowledge and positive work ethic. Their team, from Technical Journalists, Marketing, Graphic Designers, Sales Associates, Managers, Trainers, Buyers and Warehouse mentored our Retail Service students, providing them a most rewarding experience.

Angela and Jafferen organised their own work placement at Woolworths Campsie, where they were offered a job after Christmas! Adam is becoming more experienced having worked at Ice Roselands and Target Roselands. Lucy organised her own work placement at Best and Less Bankstown, where she also was offered employment. Belinda and Emma enjoyed working at Coles Ashfield and Christian and Christina at Hard Rock Café Darling Harbour and Mitre 10 Marrickville. Samantha, Theodoro and Tia are using employment with their current employer to seek recognition of prior knowledge.

Hearing about their experience in; designing a product for sale, phone sales, customer service, picking transfers for the stores, handling customer complaints, updating pixel codes, comparing prices, wrapping fake presents to be placed under Christmas trees and how to do a 'flat lay' were fascinating.

Students came back to school- excited, refocused with an increased sense of purpose, knowing their class room learning has a place in the, "real world of work". Suzie and Julie were inspired to look at careers in marketing, where they can incorporate their studies in Retail Services and their Certificate III.

Merchandising skills learnt in the class room and at work placement were then embraced as we transformed our class room, bringing the festive spirit. By sharing photos of our class room we hope to share that festive spirit with our KNHS community and wish you all a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

VET NEWS – Term 4 2018

Term 4 was an extremely busy one particularly for the new Year 12 Hospitality class. Students completed their second work placement at various host employer venues including the Shangrila Hotel at the Rocks, Doltone House Pyrmont and Bankstown Sports Club. Our students performed admirably at these venues with supervisor's reports stating they completed their duties with a high level of skill and perseverance.

Deputy Secretary of Education Visit

The Hospitality students were also busy this term preparing for two functions. The first function was a morning tea for the visit by the Deputy Secretary of Education, Murat Dizdar. The students demonstrated their competence in preparing both sweet and savoury appetisers and sandwiches. The menu they prepared was as follows:

Deputy Secretary Morning Tea Menu

Poached chicken & cucumber tea sandwiches
 Zucchini & corn fitters
 Spinach & ricotta filo parcels
 Scones with jam & cream
 Chocolate & raspberry muffins
 Lemon & almond polenta cake

Executive Meeting Luncheon

The second function was preparing a buffet lunch for the Executive Meeting on the 5th December. This was also an assessment task in which students had to demonstrate various skills in preparing and cooking a full menu under commercial timeframes. This was a real pressure test for most students with the Principal, Deputy Principals and Head Teachers all willing guinea pigs for this experiment. The feedback from the executive was positive with all enjoying the Southern American themed buffet lunch.

Mr Paul Smith – Head Teacher VET.

A Taste Of the South Menu

Baja Fish Tacos
 American sticky short ribs
 Marinated chicken thighs
 Sweet potato mash
 Tomato bread salad
 White chocolate & raspberry muffins

Photos from Zoo Snooze Excursion

Photos from Girls Day

International students Excursion 10th December 2018

On Monday of week 9, thirty five of our International students spent a day first exploring marine life in the Sydney Aquarium and later the campus at Sydney University where they visited the Nicholson museum and Fisher Library. Everyone had a fantastic time and a few fell in love with the university

Kingsgrove North High School Presentation Evening 2018

Kingsgrove North High School is proudly sponsored by the following organisations. We would like to thank and acknowledge our sponsors for their continue support of our school.

We would also like to thank and acknowledge the following local businesses that have sponsored and supported our classroom calendar for 2018.

- |                                     |                                  |
|-------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1. Abel Trophies                    | 2. City Ford Rockdale            |
| 3. David Jones Removals and Storage | 4. Euro Funeral Services         |
| 5. Harvey Norman- Wiley Park        | 6.HBA Hair by Andy               |
| 7. Jackie's Floral Gallery          | 8.Kings Value Chemist            |
| 9. LJ Hooker - Earlwood             | 10. Professional Tutoring Centre |
| 11. Telstra Store Campsie           | 12. Vicinity Centres             |